Recommendation: Eagle Creek Modular Solutions, Inc.

As a physical facilities manager, I have been doing business with Dan Rasmussen of Eagle Creek Modular Solutions, Inc. for several years. I have worked with Dan on many projects including: new building construction, renovation of existing modular structures and building inspections to determine necessary repairs and maintenance to protect our investment. Dan has extensive knowledge regarding modular solutions and building construction in general. The design and planning services Dan provides is of exceptional value. Dan listens to our requirements, offers advice and makes recommendations that help me make sound business decisions.

Any successful organization depends on a team of resources, not just a single talented individual. Eagle Creek Modular Solutions has one of the very best project managers/general contractors in the region in Max Cochran. Max's skills and leadership are unsurpassed. Max has guided us through the maze of government oversight by representing our projects with various government agencies. Max also has been our on-site general contractor and has organized the work of sub-contractors and worked with our business people to deliver exactly what was needed.

Dan and Max are very accessible and keep me well informed. They understand their role as service providers versus the role I play as a business decision maker. Each project is designed, planned and quoted, then presented for approval before resources are committed.

If further detail concerning specific projects we have done with Eagle Creek is required, please contact me directly.

Sincerely,

Gary Stidham
